STRAYED from the subscriber's flock, at grassy lick Bourbon county last spring, a roan Mare about 4 feet 8 inches high, branded DR long bob tail, very wild, never properly broke, jades very much when she trots; Also a 3 year old filly, bright bay, bobbed in the same manner and branded on the buttock thus R&C, also a foal filly, three years old, with a blaze in her face which resembles a poppaw leaf and I believe some white on her under lip, branded R&C on the buttock; also a red foal, two years old spring past, branded as above; also a very likely bay filly, one year old sprin past, a blaze face, or rather a star branded on the cushion as above, which I suppose is worn out as it was only intended to burn the hair when made. — Also a little black mare which was with foal when she went off, branded DR and on the buttock 113. Likewise a brown yearling colt. Any person giving information of any of the above creatures so that I get them again, shall be amply rewarded according to their trouble.

VIE NNA, Oct. 22.

The Emperor has issued, under date of the 14th, an official note, exhorting all the Princes of Italy to make it a common cause with the King of Sardinia, by joining him against the French, who threaten to take all Italy.

P A R I S, Oct. 24.

The negotiation with the King of Prussia commences this week at Longwy. Kellerman, Valence, the Duke of Brunswick, and gen. Kalckreuth are to open the business of accommodation. Austria is totally cut off the question.

L O N D O N, November 5.

The despotic Princes all over Europe, look towards France at present as a thief looks at the execution of a brother in inquiry. "It is what we must all come to."

November 20.

From the fabrication of twenty thousand Daggers for the English Jacobins, we may expect to see many new Tragedy Actors in the course of the winter.—At every turning of a street, we shall see the tragic start of Macbeth—

" 'tis this a Dagger that I see before me."

GEN. WASHINGTON, the President of Congress, affects a greater state than any crowned head in Europe. There are very few people that he will permit to sit down at the table with him: and when he travels, it is in a style of affected magnificence—so much for the modify of Republicanism.

B O S T O N, January 5.

A Cadiz paper mentions, that a commercial treaty is certainly negotiating between the Court of Madrid, and the United States of America; and many of the Cadiz merchants were in high spirits, in the hope, that it must prove highly beneficial, not only to their country in general, but to themselves in particular.

A citizen observes that now titles in the civil line are "dying daily," it is high time those in the Ecclesiastical should be abolished.—To give the title of Reverend to any man, "be he who may," is not only anti-republican, but absolutely blasphemous—Reverend, only belongs to the Supreme Being.—We read "Holy and Reverend is his name."—No more of Reverends among poor frail mortals.

NEW-YORK, January 18.

Extract of a letter from London, dated October 20.

"Your rejoicing at the glorious success of the French, will be mingled, I am sure, with regret for the treachery of La Fayette.—What a pity that he should have exchanged his well earned fame, for a life and memory of infamy and detestation?

"We have had no emotions hitherto tending towards a revolution; though the rapid and extensive circulation of the Rights of Man must inevitably have sown the seeds of liberty, which, in time, it is hoped, will produce good fruit."

"In the mean while, the spirited conduct of the Irish Catholics promises fair to begin the business on that side the water; so whether the Scots will take it up next or not, is less easy to foresee; but at any rate, the infection will reach us.—Ca-dra!"

A D E L P H I A,

a French ship for not saluting the British squadron on the celebration of the British King's accession.

It appears that General Catinches taken Frankfort on the Main, and imposed a contribution on that city of two millions of dollars—he has also taken the crown scepter, and regalia, used at the coronation of the Emperors of Germany.

January 19.

There is a very general report (says a London paper) that the Cabinet of St. James's, is disposed to acknowledge the new French Republic. This event which some people pretend will be made public previous to the meeting of Parliament, will open a new field for politicians.

Extract of a letter from Pittsburgh, January 4.

It appears to me to be the view of the British Court, to get their hands on the country that we and the savages are now contending for; the moment Congress cedes to the latter, the British will strike up a bargain with them for this desirable country—then will they encourage the citizens of the states to come over to them, which they will not fail to do, whenever they are pleased to be offended with the government. These ideas are half-baked together, and I pray God may not be vexed.

A report has been in circulation, that Mr. Pitt Prime Minister of Great-Britain, has resigned—particulars of this report are contained in the following.

Previous to the meeting of parliament, a cabinet council was called, when Mr. Pitt proposed that a REFORM should immediately be brought forwarded by the ministry, being the best mode to quiet the minds of the people; however the rationality of this measure was not adopted, and finding himself in the minority of the cabinet, he instantly resigned; the temerity of such a step may likely prove fatal to Britain, as he was a very popular minister and much esteemed for his integrity; if insurrections and commotions are to take place, this must undoubtedly accelerate the business, and indeed if it should happen, it will be a signal for all Europe to follow the example; when this country looks at the dreadful storm which is gathering there, well may they exclaim, "O fortunate nimium si bona nostra."

Jan. 16. We learn by a private letter from Dublin, that the communications in Ireland are considerable—it says "That a paper was fixed up in Dublin on the Barrack and Castle gates, with the words, NO KING, AND LIBERTY! On which a private council was called, and orders given to the commander in chief to repair to the barracks—there he interrogated, whether they knew or were privy to posting up of said papers; they all remained silent; he then informed them, if any of them were dissatisfied with the service, they might be discharged, but no answer was returned. Next morning a fresh paper, to the same purport appeared on the same places; on which a Royal Proclamation was issued, in which the Lord Lieutenant and Council declared, "That if any soldier should be detected in posting up any seditious paper, or, on oath, should be proved privy thereto, he should receive 500 lashes, and be expelled the service; and if any foreigners should be detected, having the book entitled The Rights of Man, written by Thomas Paine, he should be indicted as a felon."

January 24.

The following extract of a letter, dated Charleston (S. C.) Dec. 25, is copied from the Norwich Weekly Register, of Jan. 14.

"A few days since departed this life, Henry Laurens, esq. about 70 years of age, and his corpse was burnt the third day after his decease. This was done by his son at the request of the fathers who made this sacrifice in the will, that unless his son complied with this request, he should be cut short of any of his estate, which was worth about 6,000 £ sterling. The ashes remaining from the body were taken up and put into a silver urn little for that purpose. The reason that Mr. Laurens gave for this singular desire, was, that his body was too good to be eaten by worms."

February 2.

Extract of a letter from Dublin, received by the brig Friendship, arrived at New-York, after a three days passage.

The Roman Catholics are almost open rebellion. I am indicate very soon we shall have considerable business. In Dublin, under the signature of Potts, Comptroller, Seafar, Rights of Man, Am. &c. &c. are posted up every morning in the most populous parts of the city, even the Castle, Halls of Lords & Commons, and Courts of Justice, are not excepted, altho' you would think there is a soldier for every brick in those buildings, to watch the promoters, but in vain; walking thro' the city after dark, you may pick up hundreds of them.

"Government have ordered all the Irish troops away, one regiment only (that of Irish Artillery) refused to march, they are all laid, you may break us, but we will never forsake our country, more so for reason you have drained our city of our friends and relatives, and in place of them given us English and Scots."

"The guards on the Castle and Bank of Ireland are doubled."

Accounts from England men say, that they begin to flog their soldiers for reading Paine's Rights of Man. This, while it gratifies the low revenge of the Court, will notwithstanding, be the readiest means to publish the book throughout the military part of the nation.

MARTINSBURG, January 28.

A letter from a gentleman in Boston, to another in Philadelphia, mentions that a European vessel had arrived there the 29th ultimo, which brings accounts that a truce has taken place between the French and Austrian armies; that a grand Congress was to be formed on the continent, for negotiating a peace; and that the national Convention of France are to send Deputies to it. In consequence of this, it has been determined to recall the French armies within the frontier, and the enemy, to evacuate the entire line from Dunkirk to Geneva.

RICHMOND, January 26.

There is a report in this city (which I sincerely hope may prove true) that the Congress of the United States have voted the sum of 40,000 dollars to the Marquis de Lafayette, for his present purposes; and that they have empowered a person to wait on the King of Prussia, and demand of him that brave and injured Man, as an American officer.

ALEXANDRIA, January 23.

A letter from Portugal states, that the Queen is absolutely mad, considered as absolutely incurable, and hardly any longer spoken of in her own country. Her son, the Duke of Braganza, has assumed the direction of the government, under the title of Prince Regent.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.

From a Correspondent.

We are sincerely happy to have it in the Western country, that there is now a prospect of a speedy and general peace with the various Indian nations within the territory of the United States, North West of the river Ohio. The hostile tribes have actually agreed to send forward their commissioners to such a place as shall be agreed upon for this purpose. It is said, that the negotiation will be conducted on the most extensive, liberal and comprehensive principles, and that there is the best ground to believe that a peace thus negotiated will be permanent and completely satisfactory to all the contracting parties. We are not able to say by what particular influence this event is likely to take place. It is certain however, that in addition to the overtures made directly by our general government to the Indians, Capt. Brant, another principal character among the Six Nations, were some time since employed to bring about this desirable end.—But more than all, (and in its honor be it spoken) there is reason to believe, that the British Government has been highly instrumental in bringing to our view this pleasing prospect. It is but a few weeks ago since Prince Edward, the fourth son of the British King, addressed an Assembly of the Six Nations at Niagara, in a manner truly becoming. He is said to have spoken at a considerable time and with much good sense. After expatiating largely on the unhappy and ruinous effects consequent to war with the United States, he informed them that it was not only his wish that they should be at peace with America, but it was also the wish of his father; that they could not leave him more agreeably than by using their best endeavors to bring in to the same sentiments their brethren and Indian tribes now at war with the United States; that although the western Indians had gained one or two victories over the army of the United States, yet they should remember that America is very powerful and warlike, and that she is able to extirpate them from the face of the earth; that the hostile tribes ought to embrace the present offers of peace on the part of the United States, least these fatal consequences might in time follow.

After this speech, Governor St. George addressed the Indians to the same effect. Prince Edward commands a regiment now in Canada.
